What's on @ Your Library - July 2024

Library and Information Week

29th July - 4th August 2024

Libraries have deep-seated roots in providing free and equitable access to information, connecting people and communities with essential services. They play a crucial role in ensuring that information is accessible to all, empowering citizens to educate themselves and make informed decisions.

At Edward River Library, we go beyond the Non-Fiction Section to provide valuable resources for our community. This month, we feature pamphlets and brochures from our Local Health District and Intereach. These materials cover a range of topics including health programs, managing mental health, a directory of local healthcare providers, community transport options, and aged care services.

Additionally, the library offers information and support for legal assistance on various topics. You can find these resources prominently displayed near the customer service area.

DID YOU KNOW?

Do you want to borrow a book but are you're time poor?
No worries, we've got you covered.

Introducing Call + Collect!

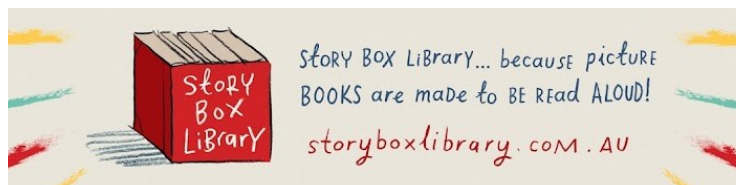

Contact the library or check the website for more information.

Story Box Library

Enjoy books by Australia's favourite authors read to you by Australian actors, authors, illustrators and comedians. Stories come to life and are yours to watch anywhere with Story Box Library. Hundreds of stories available, with new stories added every month! Select stories also available in Auslan.

Story Box Library is a digital story telling platform that provides access to diverse stories and storytellers, assisting with language, learning and social development for all children. Story Box Library's digital storytelling platform increases inclusivity during planning and practice in early childhood education and supports diverse learning styles. The platform delivers the experience of being read aloud to, helping children engage with books and develop the skills they need to communicate and read with confidence.

Story Box Library features rich vocabulary, text structures and language devices in a growing library and world of stories. Storytellers are chosen to ensure a diverse range of voices, ages, gender and backgrounds are represented.
